

From Learning Need to Readiness Decision

A new engineer moves through eight stages of orientation, demonstration, practice, support and first assignment, but the journey does not produce consistent evidence of independent-work readiness.

